SONOMA COUNTY HISTORY

In the 1890s

Santa Rosa set up a city water system to compete with Mark McDonald's water company.

Santa Rosa held its first agricultural fair.

The Page family laid out the town of Cotati with a plaza and lots for homes and small farms north of Petaluma.

Chris Nisson of Petaluma's Pioneer Hatchery built a brooder house; the hatchery was one of the largest in the world.

Numerous adventurers joined a late-decade rush to the Klondike goldfields.

Clement Bruner ran an art store and acted as an agent for famed Ukiah painter Grace Hudson.

W.J. (Joe) Hotchkiss and James Miller developed winery & prune packing operations. Hotchkiss, a major supporter of the building of the Golden Gate Bridge, was the father of tennis star Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman. The Windsor-Trenton Winery was the largest of seven they owned.

With Windsor's population shifting west, the 2nd Methodist Episcopal Church was built.

Sonoma High School opened and graduated 5 in 1899.

Richard Lewis operated the Great Eastern Quicksilver Mine near Guerneville, spurring the growth of the nearby town of Mercury.

Tanbark and charcoal industries were thriving around Occidental.

Hot springs attracted vacationers to the Geysers.

SONOMA COUNTY HISTORY

In 1920s

Bootleggers and rumrunners became part of the scene as the Prohibition era arrived across the U.S. Speakeasies abounded with much smuggling activity allegedly going through the coastal town of Tomales. Federal agents seized dozens of barrels of wine in trucks between Santa Rosa and Petaluma, and confiscated more liquid in the Dry Creek area.

During Prohibition hot claret wine gargle became a popular "cure" for sore throats.

Banker Frank Doyle called a meeting to study the building of the Golden Gate Bridge to link San Francisco and Marin County.

John Grant formed a company to generate electric power at the Big Geysers in the northeast part of the county. Technical problems complicated the process; giant McCrays Resort hosted tourists.

The Rosenberg family constructed the tallest building between San Francisco and Portland at the corner of 4th Street and Mendocino Avenue.

H.W. (Bert) Kerrigan promoted Petaluma as the World's Egg Basket.

Aerial shows became popular. Pilot Leon Ferguson was killed at the Sonoma County Fair doing "daredevil tricks" as his father watched.

Sebastopol opened the Cnopius Field airport; the facility became home to numerous barnstormer pilots.

The paving block industry diminished as auto owners demanded more comfortable surfaces.

Grace Brothers Frank and Joe closed their brewery during Prohibition, turning to other operations such as butter and ice cream.

Partly because of legal loopholes, demand for wine grapes remained strong until 1925.

Paris-born Alphonse Sondag painted scenes of California missions and Sonoma County sites.
